SUDDENNESS + CERTAINTY CURATED BY ROBERT GREENE

September 12 – October 19, 2013

Opening: Thursday, September 12, 6-8 PM

New York, NY – August 16, 2013. Robert Miller is pleased to present Suddenness + Certainty, an exhibition curated by Robert Greene which includes his own works and that of fifty-two artists in a “collage” reflecting his principal aesthetic and conceptual concerns. The project offers a view into Greene’s diverse visual world, comprising works with which he feels an immediate and visceral connection.

Included in the exhibition are four recent large-scale paintings by Greene in dialogue with minimalist art and design works, such as a vibrant pedestal sculpture by John McCracken, a towering glass-blown work by Jeff Zimmerman, and a mirrored Yayoi Kusama sculpture. Works dedicated to black, white and gray palettes are a Carter crystal bust, a tapestry by Jan Yoors, a hanging sculpture by Sarah E. Wood and two new Greene photographs printed on metal panels. A nine-foot tall Anthony Pearson sculpture will be juxtaposed with a Takesada Matsutani painting, echoing a recent white and pewter painting by Greene. The exhibition will also include photographs by Malick Sibidé and Hernan Bas, abstract textural work by Andy Warhol and Chris McCaw, and the deeply saturated works of Japanese photographers Daido Moriyama and Takuma Nakahira. Greene’s Arcadian landscapes are shown in combination with representational paintings by Jules de Balincourt, Hernan Bas, Daniel Heidkamp, Elizabeth Peyton, Kim McCarty, David Deutsch, Henry Taylor, Salvo, Anya Kielar and others. A long Wendell Castle table suggests the gallery as a place for gathering and social assembly. The exhibition also includes Diamond Head, a collaborative video installation by Johannes DeYoung and Natalie Westbrook.
